Dear Harold,

I hope that your trip was a successful and a pleasant one.

Do fill me in. Perhaps, you are too harshly critical of yourself. Faulkner once observed that we are judged not by our successes but by "the splendor of our failures."

You have, after all, held up the mirror of analysis to two of the major events in our century and revealed the invalidity of their alleged

The novel format seems impractical on fiscal grounds.

I do feel that a CIA File type book can secure a publisher given a sensational treatment.

It's certainly a very unhealthy situation.

There exists a potential market for your work.

I personally heard two people ask if Frame-Up were in paperback. A popularized paperback (1.50 to 2.00) on the assassinations would be a very viable commercial property although I get the unpronounceable impression that very unalient government subsidies dictate publisher decisions.

If only we could get a significant book in the cases!

Sincerely,

solutions.

Few men - and who with your adversity? - can lay claim to make.

As per the enclosures which I sent, you can see that "The Media Commemorated" Nov. 22 by assassinating the truth in a vain display of "Lone Assassin" propaganda on the level of "Pravda".

It was not without a certain pleasure that I heard Hoet may lose over a million on L.B.J.'s The Vantage Point.

A reward is deserved!

I was sorry that The P.M. negotiation fell through because its content almost precludes commercial publication.
